

Carnegie Mellon University

Career & Professional
Development Center

Work without Compensation

Due to liability issues and the federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), students are not eligible to volunteer in a position that normally receives monetary compensation or academic credit. This includes those students not eligible for a Work-Study award and students who have reached their award limit. For more information on this and other policies, please refer to the student handbook, The Word.