

Darryl Britt

Darryl Britt is the founder and president of Apprio, Inc. a provider of specialized technology and services solutions, within Federal and Commercial healthcare. Under his leadership, Apprio has experienced significant growth, leading to recognition as one of the fastest-growing companies according to Inc. Magazine, the Washington Business Journal and Deloitte Consulting. Apprio developed the federal government's Disaster Medical Information Suite, an electronic health record and situational awareness solution used to manage medical care during federal disasters and designated national security events. Examples include, the 2010 Deepwater Horizon oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico, the Haitian earthquakes and several recent hurricanes including Sandy, IRMA and Maria.

Apprio's commercial subsidiary ApprioHealth, assists hospitals, clinics, and healthcare providers optimize portions of their revenue cycle as well as assist their uninsured patients identify and secure healthcare coverage. ApprioHealth's expertise include Medicaid enrollment, Robotic Process Automation (RPA), healthcare staff recruitment and provider credentialing. All services support efficient claims processing, and maximization of reimbursements for their customers.

Britt earned a Bachelor of Science degree in applied mathematics and statistics in 1982 and an MBA in 1990, both from CMU. He is a member of the Healthcare Information Management and Management Systems Society (HIMSS) and Healthcare Financial Management Association (HFMA).

Britt serves as a member of the Tepper Business Board of Advisors. He and his wife, Lawanda, supported the Tepper Quad project with a gift to name the dean's suite.