

Financial Aid Academic Progress Improvement Plan
2022-2023 Academic Year

The student is required to develop a Financial Aid Academic Progress Improvement Plan in consultation with an academic advisor to continue to receive financial aid. The goal of this plan is to give the student a final opportunity to get on track toward the successful completion of their degree at Carnegie Mellon. The plan is developed to ensure the student makes documented steady progress toward meeting Financial Aid Satisfactory Academic Progress standards and graduates within the university's normal time frame to complete a degree. Carnegie Mellon's Financial Aid Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy and Procedural Statement may be found at www.cmu.edu/sfs/financial-aid/policies. The student must complete units at a rate which would enable them to complete the requirements for the degree in a maximum time frame of 150% of the published length of the academic program.
