

Carnegie Mellon Architecture Explorations

The Carnegie Mellon School of Architecture has been offering architecture programming to children in the Pittsburgh region since 1991. Our programs introduce K-12 students to architecture through both academic and extracurricular programming. It is our mission to provide an architectural foundation for children and youth which imparts a knowledge and appreciation of the built environment, encourages creative expression and critical thought, and inspires civic responsibility.

Please consider supporting Architecture Explorations at one of our contribution levels or at a denomination of your choice. Your support helps us maintain, enrich, and expand our programming and resources; provide our students with supplies and equipment; and award need-based scholarships. Carnegie Mellon is a 501(c)(3) organization and is eligible for matching gifts. Matching gifts will be used solely in the United States and to support the education objectives of Carnegie Mellon University. All contributions are tax deductible.
