Carnegie Mellon Elementary Student Talent Search Agreement to Participate

The primary purpose of EXPLORE testing is to identify students for academic programs. C-MITES will also analyze test results to determine the effectiveness of the EXPLORE test for identifying talented youth. Research reports will contain group scores. No names or other identifying information will be disclosed to protect participants' privacy. Although there is some risk that students might find the test too difficult and feel somewhat frustrated, most students find taking the EXPLORE test an interesting and challenging experience.

We would like to ask your permission to give your child's school a copy of your child's EXPLORE test results. Only your child's name, test scores, and grade level will be released. If you do not give your consent to release your child's scores to your child's school, test results will remain confidential, and you may participate in all other aspects of this project.
