The Cohon University Center opened for business on August 23, 1996. Planning for the University Center began in the mid-eighties. The building was designed by Michael Dennis & Associates, a Boston-based firm, and built by Urban Design Associates, based in Pittsburgh. The 300,000-square-foot building has become a hub for students, faculty members, and staff members who pay multiple visits each day for meals, meetings, study groups, live music and performances, films, and other activities.
