I. The Carnegie Mellon University identity system

The goal of our identity system is to create a widely recognized, positive image of the university. The most important principles in achieving this are: consistency; frequency; repetition over time.

Therefore, despite various personal preferences among our users, it is critical that the university adopts a consistent use of Carnegie Mellon's official wordmark, colors and other identity elements, and that the university limits the number and type of variations in use.

These identity standards, however, are a guide. We are an evolving university and the standards also offer flexibility in some cases. Some entities across campus have unique marketing needs (e.g., co-branding issues) that can be addressed on a case-by-case basis. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact Marketing & Communications at 412-268-9074, or email (marketing-info@andrew.cmu.edu).

UNIVERSITY WORDMARK

Wordmark = Logo

We call our "logo" a wordmark because it is comprised of words only. A logo is typically a visual identity with an image attached to words. A logo and a wordmark are one in the same.

The wordmark is the primary identity element in our system, the one most strongly associated with our brand. Our wordmark functions as the official university logo, using only the words in our name and no other graphic elements. It is a unique expression of who we are.

Any official materials associated with the university that the public may see—whether in print, online or around campus—must include the university wordmark.

WHEN TO USE CARNEGIE MELLON UNIVERSITY

We encourage that all communication vehicles use the preferred wordmark.

- The wordmark typography has been crafted especially for the university. Therefore, it can only be reproduced using a graphic file (EPS, TIFF, JPEG, GIF, etc.). Download the wordmark at www.cmu.edu/marcom/brand-guidelines/downloads/.

- The word "University" is part of our official wordmark. This is to clearly distinguish Carnegie Mellon University from other institutions who use "Carnegie" or "Mellon" in their names. As the university develops a strong global presence, this clarity is even more important.

- When writing about the university, use Carnegie Mellon University first. Then “CMU” may be used as a second reference for Carnegie Mellon University in text. Download the Writers’ Style Guide at www.cmu.edu/marcom/brand-guidelines/downloads/.

- On merchandise “CMU” can be used but must be accompanied by the full wordmark, Carnegie Mellon University. See the Merchandise Guidelines at www.cmu.edu/marcom/promotions/ for the official version and usage of “CMU.”

The wordmark must be legible when using a photographic background. Do not use the wordmark on a photographic background without permission from Marketing & Communications at 412-268-9074, or marketing-info@andrew.cmu.edu.

The wordmark cannot be reversed out of any color except red (PMS 187), black or gray.

Carnegie Mellon University
BRAND ARCHITECTURE / UNITMARKS

Carnegie Mellon University’s brand architecture shows the relationships among all the entities that make up the university. It also sets priorities — a hierarchy of brands — and guides their graphic expression.

DOES YOUR DEPARTMENT, CENTER OR PROGRAM NEED A LOGO?

You already have one: the Carnegie Mellon University wordmark. Because of its wide recognition, the university wordmark will do the best job of building equity into any entity associated with it. Your group or organization does not need its own separate logo, especially for the university’s official documents. However, we are providing a unitmark design for you.

For a visual representation of your group name, we recommend the following:

• Instead of creating or using your own logo for official university print and web materials, use your entity’s name "locked up" with the Carnegie Mellon University wordmark on official business materials or marketing pieces which we call a unitmark. Example shown below. Please note: Unitmarks will differ between web usage and print usage. Please refer to web guidelines (page 10) for how to use your unitmark on the web.

• The Carnegie Mellon wordmark and unitmarks are not to be recreated in a font—they are graphic files only. Please do not create your own unitmark. Digital & Creative Services (commdesign-photog@andrew.cmu.edu) will provide them to you free of cost. Carnegie Mellon University should appear in the primary color palette red, black or white and your unitmark should appear in black or white.

• Please refer to the brand architecture/unitmarks for how to use the wordmark together with other university entities. If you are interested in producing something for unofficial use like spirit items (i.e. event t-shirt, poster), read more at the Local Expression (page 19) section.

• The name Carnegie Mellon University is the most important branded element. By placing the most emphasis on the university name, we reinforce the brand everywhere it appears worldwide. In addition, the university’s brand helps build equity in all the campuses, schools/colleges, departments and centers/institutes that are associated with it. Above all, we want to show that there is one Carnegie Mellon University and all of its campuses and programs are the same everywhere.

• The Carnegie Mellon University wordmark always appears first. When “locked up” with the names of campuses and other entities, the Carnegie Mellon University wordmark takes the top position.

• Some campuses schools/colleges, departments, centers/institutes and others in the university community currently have their own visual identities. To build equity in the overall university brand, which benefits everyone, we encourage the use of the official university brand architecture.

• Note that in the visual identity of academic departments, only the department name appears, not the name of the school or college. The higher entity will visually be included in text somewhere on the marketing vehicle.

UNIVERSITY COLORS

Using a consistent color palette helps build awareness and recognition for Carnegie Mellon.

Be sure to use Pantone Matching System (PMS) color values, not the swatches here, to assure exactly the right match.

PRIMARY COLOR PALETTE

Our main color is PMS 187 red, accompanied by black, white, light gray and dark gray. The official wordmark should appear only in these colors, and should be reversed out of these colors only.

TARTAN PLAID COLOR PALETTE

In addition to the primary colors, the Carnegie Mellon tartan plaid inspires a second set of official colors. The tartan color palette is most effective when used for background colors on event materials and merchandise.

OFFICIAL TARTAN PLAID

The Tartan Plaid (official university plaid) is the preferred version for print. Carnegie Mellon Band members wear the official plaid in their kilts/uniforms. Wool material on a spool and wrapping paper sheets are available in the bookstore.

Please contact Digital & Creative Services at (commdesign-photog@andrew.cmu.edu) to obtain the official plaid.
The official seal of Carnegie Mellon University from 1967 was originally reserved for only official documents, including diplomas, presidential and trustee minutes or other legal, academic or official university documentation — or on the highest awards or certificates.

The seal can now also be used for FORMAL occasions and formal products, including items for commencement, specific gift items in brass, silver or pewter, appropriate clothing (sports coats), stationery and other items. If an item is in question, please contact Marketing & Communications at (marketing-info@andrew.cmu.edu). Please contact Digital & Creative Services at (commdesign-photog@andrew.cmu.edu) to obtain the official seal graphic.

The Official Seal: 4-color, 1-color
TYPOGRAPHY

There are two recommended font families in the Carnegie Mellon typography system: Times and Helvetica. These two font families were chosen to complement the wordmark. Choose from these families for overall headlines and text in your materials. Other typefaces may be used for special events or creative materials.

The Carnegie Mellon wordmark and unitmarks are not to be recreated in a font — they are graphic files only. See Brand Guidelines to download the official wordmark at www.cmu.edu/marcom/brand-guidelines/downloads. Please do not create your own unitmark. Digital & Creative Services (commdesign-photog@andrew.cmu.edu) will provide your unitmark free of cost.

II. Online standards

WEB STANDARDS

For many, the website is the first point of contact with Carnegie Mellon University. It is important to apply the same standards of consistency and brand presence here as elsewhere in our communications.

Below are standards for www.cmu.edu. The Marketing & Communications webteam (web-feedback@andrew.cmu.edu) is ready to help with templates, advice and other resources.

CONTENT MANAGEMENT SYSTEM (CMS) TEMPLATES

The university provides a free Content Management System (CMS) and a corresponding set of templates that determine where things are placed on CMS websites. This ensures a consistent web presence across university sites. Each page has assigned areas for text, images, navigation, callout boxes and breadcrumbs. By using the CMS, all fonts and colors are already coded and decided. To learn more about the templates, visit www.cmu.edu/cms/templates/.

Unfortunately, not everybody can use the CMS due to technical constraints. For example, there are issues with dynamic content and linking to a database. If you’re interested in learning more about the CMS, visit www.cmu.edu/cms. You can also contact the CMS team in Computing Services by emailing (cms-help@andrew.cmu.edu).

WORDMARK

The wordmark should appear in a prominent position on every web page. The best position is the top left corner.

The name of a school, department or any other entity must appear below, never above, the university wordmark.

If you are using the web template designs and currently have an university unitmark, we advise you to use the recommended “CMS mark” by itself in the space provided (exhibit A). This way it does not appear to be repetitive with the CMU wordmark. If you have a logo that falls outside of the identity system templates, place it in the space provided (exhibit B). For all other options, please contact Digital & Creative Services.

WEB IMAGES

Acceptable file types include JPG, GIF, PNG and SVG. Use JPG for photos and PNG or GIF for graphics, charts and logos.

Images should have a resolution of 72dpi (dots per inch). Use RGB or indexed color modes. If the colors of your image look inverted, then it’s in CMYK (print) color mode.

Do not resize images using HTML. Images displayed on a page should be actual size; resizing should be done in a photo editing application, such as Adobe® Photoshop®. Unless you are using photography, please stay within the suggested web color palette.
WEB COLORS
Below are the majority of colors used on www.cmu.edu and its sister sites. Red (hexadecimal #990000) and dark gray (hexadecimal #464646) are the primary university web colors. The secondary colors are only used to support the primary colors.

Primary Web Colors
- red #990000
- dark gray #464646
- light gray #d4d4d4
- light tan #f3e0e9

Secondary Web Colors
- violet #674c56
- blue #7493a2
- mustard #c1a662
- brown #936241
- orange #d177c2
- green #999933
- tan #ac9d74

WEB TYPOGRAPHY
For body copy, the recommended faces for the web, in order of preference, are Verdana, Arial and Helvetica. The browser should use Verdana first; if it is not available, use Arial and then Helvetica. If none are available, use another sans serif font.

NAVIGATION AND STYLE
Navigation should always be on the left. Navigation should work similarly to www.cmu.edu/computing and www.cmu.edu/athletics.

Please only use the styles provided in the CSS document given to you or link to the university’s common template CSS document: www.cmu.edu/common/css/cmu.css

LINKS
Links within your own website should open in the same window. Other sites should open in a new window.

PDF files should open in a new window and be labeled [pdf]. For example:

Read Professor Smith’s dissertation [pdf]

Linked text should be relevant and meaningful. Do not link words like “here” or “this page.” For example:

Watch our YouTube playlist here.  Incorrect
RSS
If you have the ability to implement an RSS feed, it should be updated at least once a week. The RSS and RSS rollover images are located in the home images folder:

SOCIAL NETWORKING SITES

Social networking sites offer a valuable way to engage students, alumni and the public in the life of the university. However, it is important that we ensure a united presence so that users have a clear understanding of who we are.

Marketing & Communications oversees the central Carnegie Mellon presence on several social networking sites and evaluates whether to launch a presence on new sites as they become available.

Keep in mind that all identity guidelines apply when it comes to social networking sites. We can offer guidance if you’re unsure about how to properly use a logo or have other questions about branding issues in these venues. Also, please respect the social media guidelines that can be found on the Marketing & Communications website, www.cmu.edu/marcom.

In some cases, it may be best for a group to use existing university-level channels to broadcast their message, and Marketing & Communications will work with them to make this happen. In other cases, it may be most useful for a group to create their own presence. Contact us at (web-feedback@andrew.cmu.edu) before you create your site, so that we can discuss naming, graphics, etc. to help you get started.

Before you embark on creating your own social networking sites, explore some of Carnegie Mellon’s existing sites, including:
- YouTube:  www.youtube.com/carnegiemellonu
- Facebook: www.cmu.edu/facebook
- Twitter: www.twitter.com/carnegiemellon
- iTunes U:  www.cmu.edu/itunesu
- LinkedIn: www.cmu.edu/alumni/linkedin
- Carnegie Mellon Social:  www.cmu.edu/social
- Social Directory: www.cmu.edu/social-media

Some ways in which we partner with groups in social networking include:
- YouTube: uploading videos or identifying groups on our “other channels” sidebar
- Facebook: posting updates about campus news and events
- Twitter: “retweeting” in order to boost followers and disseminate news
- iTunes U: loading audio podcasts or synching an RSS feed of content
EMAIL SIGNATURES

Electronic signatures are a great way for the university to have a consistent brand image. While there are no official guidelines for signatures, it is suggested that you do not use an attached image as a signature, since email systems and users may inadvertently read those messages as spam.

In addition, it is recommended that you use the full name: Carnegie Mellon University, rather than “CMU” or other acronyms, as well as provide a link back to www.cmu.edu.

Finally, it’s much easier to read Verdana and Arial fonts on the web. We suggest these sans serif options.

If you have any questions about the Carnegie Mellon web presence or these guidelines, please contact the Marketing & Communications webteam at (web-feedback@andrew.cmu.edu).
III. Print standards

LETTERHEAD, ENVELOPES AND BUSINESS CARDS

Each letter or business card is an opportunity to build recognition for Carnegie Mellon around the world. When the stationery is consistently designed, it strengthens the university’s visual identity and contributes positively to our institutional image as a whole.

Because these items are the most widely used communication tools to carry the institutional name and wordmark, the university uses one design for all official university letterhead and business cards.

Letterhead: All administrative units must use official Carnegie Mellon letterhead (red Carnegie Mellon University wordmark in upper left corner, return address in [Name: Helvetica Neue - 75 Bold, Text: Helvetica Neue - 55 Roman] in upper right corner, on white paper) for all correspondences. Schools/colleges and centers/institutes can use their own existing logos, if they have one, at the bottom of the letterhead in black, without the Carnegie Mellon wordmark. Names of any other entities — departments and organizations, must follow the standard letterhead guidelines.

Envelopes: All administrative units must use official Carnegie Mellon University envelope setups (red Carnegie Mellon University wordmark in upper left corner, return address in Helvetica Neue Bold and Roman, aligned below wordmark) for all envelopes.

Business cards: All administrative units and individuals must use official Carnegie Mellon business cards (red Carnegie Mellon University wordmark centered at top, name and department in bold Helvetica, all other address and title text in Roman Helvetica) for all communications. The reverse side of the card should be PMS 187 (red). Schools/colleges/centers/institutes can use their own logos or unitmarks only on the back side in white reversed out of red (exhibit A). All other departments and organizations, must follow the official business card guidelines (exhibit B).
HOW TO ORDER

Orders for letterhead, envelopes and business cards should be placed with the University Printing Department www.cmu.edu/printingmailing/printing/business-cards or by calling 412-268-2970.
WORDMARK USAGE

Note that “CMU” may now be used in printed materials on second reference. Be sure to use the full university name on first reference.

In general, copy that is included in all external, promotional materials should be developed or reviewed by Marketing & Communications in order to ensure consistency and accuracy of information and data that is shared with the public. Although this is not required, it is encouraged.

WRITERS’ STYLE GUIDE

The creation and use of consistent forms of abbreviation, capitalization, italics and punctuation, along with a consistent treatment of words, terms, titles and names is part of creating and maintaining an overall sense of identity and professionalism. Choose a style guide (Associated Press (AP) Style recommended) and be consistent in using it.

Download the complete university Writers’ Style Guide.pdf for reference.

STATEMENT OF ASSURANCE

The Statement of Assurance must be placed in all graduate and undergraduate admissions publications and all other publications where such a statement is necessary or appropriate. It may be omitted on some internal publications, including: campus memos, flyers, invitations, limited distribution departmental publications (including many departmental newsletters), posters and/or programs/event signage. It does not need to be included on the following: alumni publications (those not also distributed to faculty and staff), donor recognition publications and fundraising publications.

Statement of Assurance text

Carnegie Mellon University does not discriminate in admission, employment, or administration of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, handicap or disability, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, creed, ancestry, belief, veteran status, or genetic information. Furthermore, Carnegie Mellon University does not discriminate and is required not to discriminate in violation of federal, state, or local laws or executive orders.

Inquiries concerning the application of and compliance with this statement should be directed to the vice president for campus affairs, Carnegie Mellon University, 5000 Forbes Avenue, Pittsburgh, PA 15213, telephone 412-268-2056.

In addition to the statement above, please insert the paragraph below in all communications to prospective graduate and undergraduate students as well as communications to prospective employees.

Carnegie Mellon University publishes an annual campus security and fire safety report describing the university’s security, alcohol and drug, sexual assault, and fire safety policies and containing statistics about the number and type of crimes committed on the campus and the number and cause of fires in campus residence facilities during the preceding three years. You can obtain a copy by contacting the Carnegie Mellon Police Department at 412-268-2323. The annual security and fire safety report is also available online at www.cmu.edu/police/annualreports.
IV. Signage, product and merchandise standards

The most tangible use of the name Carnegie Mellon University can be found around campus — on buildings, vehicles, uniforms and merchandise.

CAMPUS SIGNAGE, UNIFORMS AND VEHICLES

The official university identity system must be applied to any new outdoor or indoor directional signs, to official staff uniforms and garments and to vehicles acquired by administrative units. Please contact Digital & Creative Services at (commdesign-photog@andrew.cmu) if you are interested in updating any standard interior or exterior wayfinding or directional signage. They work closely with Facilities Management Services and have university signage guidelines that all campus constituents should follow.

For any new exterior signage on campus property or facilities, please contact Marketing & Communications (marketing-info@andrew.cmu.edu) first to facilitate the process. It may be taken to the University Design Committee for review and approval and require Campus Design & Facility Development depending on the scope.

The Carnegie Mellon University wordmark will be added, initially to exterior signage as the design is updated.
PRODUCT ENDORSEMENT

From time to time, the university creates games, robots and other products in the public eye. To make sure the university is properly credited with these innovative efforts, we have developed the endorsement statement, “Created by Carnegie Mellon University.”

This statement should be used prominently on the product, closely following the product name.

created by CARNEGIE MELLON UNIVERSITY

WHO MAY USE THE ENDORSEMENT

The use of the endorsement statement must be approved by legal, licensing and Marketing & Communications to make sure the association with Carnegie Mellon is appropriate and fruitful for both the product and the university.

MERCHANDISE GUIDELINES

For complete guidelines for licensed merchandise, please visit www.cmu.edu/marcom/promotions/ to download our Merchandise Guidelines.

LOCAL EXPRESSION / SPIRIT ITEMS

Carnegie Mellon is a vibrant, creative place. Many departments and organizations create identities for themselves around special events, or for special purposes meaningful to them.

If these “local expressions” have limited range and are non-commercial, use of the official wordmark is not required or recommended. However, if the wordmark is used, please follow the guidelines for size, readability, color and controlled space around it — and do not add any other graphic element to the wordmark. Please note that use of the wordmark requires approval from Marketing & Communications or the Trademark Licensing Office. Download our Merchandise Guidelines at www.cmu.edu/marcom/promotions/.
V. Resources

Carnegie Mellon University offers a wealth of resources for faculty, staff and students to help promote and protect the university’s image.

OFFICIAL GRAPHICS

Downloadable university graphics
The graphics are available, with an Andrew ID and password, for download in ZIP FILE (containing BMP, GIF, EPS, JPG and PNG formats) www.cmu.edu/marcom/brand-guidelines/downloads/. Do not alter these graphics in any way.

Graphic design services
Digital & Creative Services (commdesign-photog@andrew.cmu), part of Marketing & Communications, provides a full range of professional graphic services, from the design and production of print collateral to specialty products at a reasonable cost.

Web templates
The university provides a free Content Management System (CMS) and a corresponding set of templates that determine where things are placed on CMS websites. To learn more about the templates, visit Content Management System (CMS) www.cmu.edu/cms/templates/.

Photography
Professional photography is available by one of our campus photographers in Digital & Creative Services (commdesign-photog@andrew.cmu).

Office and presentation templates

- Microsoft® PowerPoint® master templates are available that can be used for all of your university presentations at www.cmu.edu/marcom/brand-guidelines/downloads/.
- Memo, fax cover sheets and meeting report templates can be downloaded at www.cmu.edu/marcom/brand-guidelines/downloads/.

Podium signs

A podium sign with the standard wordmark is available for your event or speaker. To borrow a podium sign, complete the order form at www.cmu.edu/marcom/event-displays/event-display-order-form.

Whenever possible, use the university wordmark on a podium. The university seal podium sign is to be used only when the university president has a significant speaking role at an event — if media is present, default to the wordmark sign for easy recognition that the speaker is at Carnegie Mellon University.
Exhibits and banners
Carnegie Mellon has a tradeshow exhibit booth, a wide variety of standalone banners and other display materials. The banners are lightweight, making them very easy to transport and use. The banners are available to the Carnegie Mellon community free of cost. However, shipping costs will be charged, as appropriate. Details and more information about what is available, including the size and design specifications, are included on the event displays page at www.cmu.edu/marcom/event-displays/event-display-order-form.

The university also offers other equipment and assistance in planning events. Please contact Marketing & Communications (marketing-info@andrew.cmu.edu) for further information.

Trademarks and licensing policies
- Refer to the Policy for Use of Carnegie Mellon Trademarks at www.cmu.edu/policies/documents/Trademark for assistance in conforming to proper licensing procedures.

- Do not infringe on other copyrights. Particularly when working with students or volunteers, be careful not to allow use of other trademarks or licensed images or treatments.
