CMU Launches $20M Classroom Renovation Project

Carnegie Mellon is embarking on a multi-year, $20 million renovation project that will provide a dramatic upgrade for central teaching and learning spaces across the Pittsburgh campus.
Computer Reads Body Language

Researchers at CMU's Robotics Institute have enabled a computer to understand body poses and movements of people in real time.

Researchers Find New Vehicle Emissions Deceptively Clean

CMU engineers have found that newer gasoline vehicles emit less particulate matter, but vapors in the "cleaner" exhaust form particulate matter after exiting the tailpipe that can be just as harmful.

Good Neighbor Negri

CMU alumnus and accomplished jazz musician Joe Negri has fond memories of his career, including his time in "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood."
Laura Velasco designs surveys and analyzes data to help her CMU clients make informed decisions to benefit the university community.

---

Calendar Highlights

Today

* Fruits of Your Labor: Exploring the Impact of Your Productivity

Student Privacy and FERPA Workshop

July 24

Scott Institute Seminar: Accelerating Energy Technology Innovation at Cyclotron Road

July 25

* Engage: Motivating Others Through Your Influence

Oracle Purchase Order Training

July 26

* Using Problem-Solving To Get Things Accomplished
July 27

Bringing Out the Best in Others

Financial Data Warehouse 101

August 1

* Staying the Course: Navigating Your Priorities

August 3

New Hire Orientation

August 8

* What's the Rule? Grammar for Professional Writing

* Professional Development Workshop

Personal Mentions
Priya Narasimhan and Vivian Davidson Hewitt were among this year Heinz History Center award winners.

Martin Gaynor is a 2017 recipient of the International Health Economic Association’s Kenneth J. Arrow Award.

Joel Greenhouse recently co-chaired a National Academies of Sciences, Engineering and Medicine committee on highway safety for commercial motor carriers.

Elizabeth Chodos has been named director of Carnegie Mellon's Mille Gallery.

Obituary: George Romero, a 1960 graduate of the College of Fine Arts who became known as the godfather of zombie films, died July 16.

News Briefs

- Movie Filming in Gates Hillman
- Steinberg Estate Makes $1M Donation
- Oakland Restaurant Week Returns, July 24-29

See something? Say something. Help ensure the safety and well-being of the CMU community by calling:

University Police: 412-268-2323

Ethics Hotline: 1-877-700-7050