summer study and fall internships for graduating students and recent graduates urban design regional employment action for minorities June 7 - October 1, 2010

application
deadline
January 15

UDream provides recent graduates of architecture, landscape architecture, and urban planning programs the opportunity to deepen their knowledge of urban design in a summer and fall immersion experience. UDream begins on the Carnegie Mellon University campus with a 5 week program of academic courses and studio work with an emphasis on urban sustainability. The courses and studio are taught by architecture faculty and local urban design practitioners. The academic program is followed by a 12 week internship with an urban design firm, public agency, or non-profit group engaged in planning and community development. The goal of UDream is to increase diversity in the profession of urban design nationally, and in the Pittsburgh region specifically, by offering opportunities for permanent employment in Pittsburgh. UDream participants receive free tuition, housing, and transportation to and from Pittsburgh, plus a $1,000/month stipend.
