The Carnegie Mellon Council of Religious Advisors (CoRA) supports and encourages religious life within the campus community. Members of the Council provide a variety of services including counseling, educational programs, conferences, worship, discussion groups, social events and religious instruction. Council members work from their own traditions and cooperatively on interfaith programs.

The university acknowledges the staff members of those ministries who are commissioned by their particular faith group to work within the campus community at Carnegie Mellon. Each chaplaincy has its own mission, objective, and schedules, which are available through the individual faith groups.

Not all faith groups on campus are currently members of the CoRA. We are happy to help you get in touch with the appropriate student organizations, places of worship and resources within the local community. For more information please visit our website at
