Does an Individual Meet the Definition of a Visitor?
(For purposes of the Visitor Request Process)

Will the individual collaborate with CMU personnel on-site at a U.S. Campus or Location?

- Yes
  - Will the individual be given access to CMU facilities, resources or intellectual property that are not open or available to the public?
    - No
      - Is the individual a paid employee of CMU (including paid interns and student employees)?
        - Yes
          - Is the individual an enrolled student at CMU or a "visiting non-degree students" enrolled in classes?
            - Yes
              - Is the individual coming to CMU solely for the purpose of attending a conference?
                - Yes
                  - Is the individual coming to CMU solely for the purpose of participating on a thesis committee?
                    - Yes
                      - Is the individual invited to CMU solely for the purpose of attending a meeting or event (e.g. business meeting, interview, campus/department tour, alumni, fund raiser, athletic, or charity event, or events for prospective students and families, etc.)?
                        - Yes
                          - Is the individual coming to CMU solely as (or on behalf of) a contractor, subcontractor or consultant where the purpose and tenor of the visit are covered by a separate written agreement with CMU?
                            - Yes
                              - Is the individual a person who has been granted temporary "visiting faculty status" under CMU’s faculty policies (do they have a paid faculty appointment in Workday)?
                                - Yes
                                  - Is the individual at CMU as a participant in a human subjects research study?
                                    - Yes
                                      - Does the individual have a separate written agreement that permits the individual to access university facilities, resource, or intellectual property (e.g. a consortium agreement)?
                                        - Yes
                                          - Is a visitor
                                            - No
                                              - Not a visitor
                                                - No

- No
  - Will the individual collaborate with CMU personnel on-site at a U.S. Campus or Location?
    - Yes
      - Will the individual be given access to CMU facilities, resources or intellectual property that are not open or available to the public?
        - No
          - Is the individual a paid employee of CMU (including paid interns and student employees)?
            - Yes
              - Is the individual an enrolled student at CMU or a "visiting non-degree students" enrolled in classes?
                - Yes
                  - Is the individual coming to CMU solely for the purpose of attending a conference?
                    - Yes
                      - Is the individual coming to CMU solely for the purpose of participating on a thesis committee?
                        - Yes
                          - Is the individual invited to CMU solely for the purpose of attending a meeting or event (e.g. business meeting, interview, campus/department tour, alumni, fund raiser, athletic, or charity event, or events for prospective students and families, etc.)?
                            - Yes
                              - Is the individual coming to CMU solely as (or on behalf of) a contractor, subcontractor or consultant where the purpose and tenor of the visit are covered by a separate written agreement with CMU?
                                - Yes
                                  - Is the individual a person who has been granted temporary "visiting faculty status" under CMU’s faculty policies (do they have a paid faculty appointment in Workday)?
                                    - Yes
                                      - Is the individual at CMU as a participant in a human subjects research study?
                                        - Yes
                                          - Does the individual have a separate written agreement that permits the individual to access university facilities, resource, or intellectual property (e.g. a consortium agreement)?
                                            - Yes
                                              - Is a visitor
                                                - No
                                                  - Not a visitor
                                                    - No