

Consent Form – Office of Undergraduate Research and Scholar Development

When you work with the Office of Undergraduate Research and Scholar Development, you are representing the Carnegie Mellon University students, often paving the way for students who will follow your lead in applying for prestigious fellowship opportunities. In the spirit of sharing best practices and lessons learned with each cohort of students who decide to pursue these distinct opportunities, we often like to share previous applicants' application materials with the current group of students who share these interests and aspirations. Your application most likely benefited from exposure to your predecessors' work. Will you offer the same opportunity to the generations of students who share your aspirations? If so, please sign the following consent form and return it to the Office of Undergraduate Research and Scholar Development at oursd-general@andrew.cmu.edu.

I agree to let the personnel of the Office of Undergraduate Research and Scholar Development use the writing I develop for specific competitions as part of an archive to benefit future students. I understand that the Office of Undergraduate Research and Scholar Development will take all reasonable measures to redact identifying information from my materials, but cannot guarantee absolute anonymity. The privacy of these materials will be further protected by sharing them in restricted archives shared only with CMU students and alumni who are applying for awards.
