Carnegie Mellon University is designated a "military friendly" campus according to www.militaryfriendly.com. With over 200 CMU students, faculty and staff identifying themselves as veterans, members of the military community contribute to the vitality and hard-working spirit of our campus. For almost 30 years, CMU has hosted a successful Naval ROTC program, Steel City Unit. CMU's renowned educational experience and its financial stability provide military veteran and ROTC students with the tools to solve complex problems and shape the world before, during, and after their military experience.

Carnegie Mellon Naval ROTC (NROTC) students participate in the Steel City NROTC Unit, one of 63 units and consortiums at 77 schools across the United States. CMU students active in the Army or Air Force participate in a joint ROTC program through the University of Pittsburgh. Of the 25 ROTC students studying at CMU in 2018-2019, 21 received full tuition scholarships. Undergraduate ROTC scholarship recipients receive an institutional grant of $8,000 for room and board from Carnegie Mellon - this is in addition to the scholarship funds provided by the Navy, Army and Air Force.

Campus Services & Local Environment

Along with the many local veterans' organizations around Pittsburgh, there are three student organizations on campus: the Heinz Veterans Association, the CMU Student Veterans and Family Association, and the Tepper School of Business Military Veterans Association. CMU is also one of 2,299 colleges and universities that participates in the "8 Keys to Veterans' Success," which is a voluntary initiative through the Departments of Education, Veterans Affairs and Defense. The program involves universities that have committed to supporting veterans as they pursue their educational and employment goals. A website dedicated to CMU's veterans and military community is available at www.cmu.edu/veterans.
