Participation Agreement
Confidentiality Terms Attachment

The Course Sponsor may be providing and/or making available certain confidential or proprietary information to you, your Professor(s) and the other Students participating the Course Project for use in connection with the Course Project.

The terms below describe your confidentiality obligations. By signing the participation Agreement, you are agreeing to these terms for the benefit of the Course Sponsor. That means the Course Sponsor has the right to bring legal action against you if you do not follow these terms.

1. What will be disclosed? During the Course Project, you may be given or have access to certain Course Sponsor information and materials. The Course Sponsor does not want you to disclose these items except as permitted below.
2. Which information needs to be kept confidential? Any information that the Course Sponsor would like to be considered “Confidential Information” and covered by these terms must be clearly marked or designated as “confidential” as follows:

--For any materials that are in tangible form (written materials, sample products, etc.), they must be physically marked or stamped “confidential.”

--For any information that the Course Sponsor would like to be considered “Confidential Information” that is disclosed to you in a conversation or shown to you visually, the Course Sponsor must tell you at the time of disclosure that the information should be considered “Confidential Information” AND then within 20 days following disclosure the Course Sponsor must provide you a written memorandum marked “confidential” that confirms in writing the specific oral and/or visual information they would like you to consider “Confidential Information.”

Any information provided to you by Course Sponsor that is not marked or designated as “confidential” as indicated above will NOT be considered “Confidential Information” and does NOT have to be kept confidential by you under these terms.

3. Exceptions. Sometimes certain information accessed by or provided to you will not be considered “Confidential Information” under these terms even if it is marked or designed as “confidential.” “Confidential Information” does NOT include information that:
- a) was publicly known at the time it is disclosed to or accessed by you;
 - b) becomes publicly known after it is accessed by or disclosed to you (as long as it did not become publicly known because you did not abide by your obligations under this confidentiality terms);
 - c) was already known to you and/or in your possession at the time it was accessed by or disclosed to you;
 - d) is disclosed by the Course Sponsor to someone else without the Course Sponsor asking them to keep it confidential; or
 - e) is obtained by you from someone other than the Course Sponsor without you being asked to keep it confidential, and the person/entity from whom you obtained the information was not under an obligation to keep it confidential.

4. What can I do with “Confidential Information and to whom may I show it?” You may use the Confidential Information only in connection with the Course Project. You agree to take reasonable steps to prevent others from having access to the Confidential Information. Provided you are taking those steps to protect the information, you will not be liable for the inadvertent or accidental disclosure of the Confidential Information.

Except as provided in the following paragraph, you may not disclose Confidential Information to anyone except to the Professor(s) or other Students participating in the Project who have also signed non-disclosure agreements with the Course Sponsor.

In the event that any Confidential Information is required to be disclosed by any governmental agency or otherwise required to be disclosed by law (i.e., you receive a subpoena asking that you disclose certain of the Confidential Information), you can disclose it without violating your confidentiality obligations under these terms. However, before disclosing it you must give the Course Sponsor reasonable prior written notice that you are being required to disclose the information. This notice should be addressed to the Course Sponsor using the address listed on the signature page of the Educational Project Agreement.

5. How long do I need to keep the information confidential? You must keep the Confidential Information confidential under these terms for a period of two (2) years from the date the information is disclosed to you. However, you can disclose it sooner if either (a) the Course Sponsor provides written approval for you to disclose it, or (b) it no longer falls under the definition of “Confidential Information” (for example, if the information becomes publicly known and therefore falls under one of the exceptions in Section 3 above), except if the reason it no longer falls under the definition is because you did not abide by your obligations under these terms (for example, you would not be able to post the Confidential Information on your web site in violation of these terms and then argue it is now publicly known and not subject to confidentiality obligations).
6. Who owns the Confidential Information? All Confidential Information disclosed by the Course Sponsor remains the property of the Course Sponsor. At the end of the Course Project, you must destroy your copies of the Confidential Information unless the Course

Sponsor instead requests that you give them back to the Course Sponsor. You must also erase any electronic copies of the Confidential Information you may have. You understand and agree that just because the Course Sponsor is allowing you to use its Confidential Information in conjunction with the Course Project, it does not mean that you are granted any intellectual property rights or licenses in the Confidential Information.

7. What can happen if the Confidential Information is improperly disclosed? If you disclose the Confidential Information in violation of these terms, it could result in irreparable injury to the Course Sponsor, and a monetary award may not be enough to fully compensate the Course Sponsor for its losses. Therefore, you agree that in the event that you do not abide by your obligations under these terms (or the Course Sponsor has reason to believe that you are going to breach your obligations), the Course Sponsor can go to court and seek an injunction prohibiting you from any continuing breaches or ask for other equitable relief from the court. Seeking an injunction is in addition to any other legal relief available to the Course Sponsor (such as taking action against you for failing to abide by these terms).
8. Can I transfer my rights under these confidentiality terms to someone else? You may not assign or transfer any rights given to you under the Participation Agreement (including these terms) to anyone without first getting written permission from the Course Sponsor. For example, if you sign the Participation Agreement, receive Confidential Information from the Course Sponsor, and then you drop the Course, you may not pass your Confidential Information and a copy of these terms to a student who enrolls in the Course in your place.
9. Can the Course Sponsor later give me additional restrictions on my use of their information after I've already taken receipt of it? The provisions of these confidentiality terms can only be changed if you, Carnegie Mellon and the Course Sponsor agree in writing. These confidentiality terms are the entire agreement between you and the Course Sponsor regarding its Confidential Information and it supersedes any prior agreements, understanding or discussions with respect to the Confidential Information.
10. If the Course Sponsor and I have a disagreement regarding these confidentiality terms, how will it be solved? These confidentiality terms and any disputes relating to them will be interpreted in accordance with the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Any dispute or claim arising out of or relating to this Agreement will be settled by arbitration in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania in accordance with the rules of the American Arbitration Association and judgment upon award rendered by the arbitrator(s) may be entered in any court having jurisdiction. This arbitration provision does not limit the right of the Course Sponsor to go to court and seek an injunction as described in Section 7 above.
11. Will these confidentiality obligations affect my ability to use the work product I develop under the Course Project? Consistent with the Participation Agreement between you and Carnegie Mellon relating to the Course Project, you will keep ownership to your work product developed under the Course Project (although you are providing certain license rights to your work as described in the Educational Project Agreement). Therefore, you are free to use or disclose your work product however you wish PROVIDED THAT you do not disclose or release any Confidential Information. For example, if any of your work includes any of the Course Sponsor's Confidential Information, you will need to either remove the Confidential Information or get written permission from the Course Sponsor before you disseminate it.
