

Biography

Chengye Liu is a PhD candidate in the John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences at Harvard University. He received his BS degree from National University of Singapore in 2014, winning the Lew Kuan Yew Gold Medal and Institution of Engineers Singapore Gold Medal. He is currently working on developing devices and systems with two-dimensional materials for image sensing, non-volatile storage and RF applications. He is also interested in printable sensors and RF transceiver systems on flexible substrates.