Seong Jun Kang received his B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in Physics from Yonsei University. In 2005, He joined in University of Illinois at Urbana Champaign as a postdoctoral research associate, where he was involved in research of flexible and stretchable electronic devices based on carbon nanomaterials. In 2007, he joined Korea Research Institute of Standards and Science as a research scientist. From 2010, he joined to the Department of Materials Science and Engineering at Kyung Hee University. He also worked at Columbia University (New York) in 2016. His research interests focused on emerging optoelectronics based on oxide semiconductors and nanomaterials. Also, he focused on the study of interfacial electronic structures between nanomaterials for the high-performance optoelectronics.
