

HELMUT VOGEL

Born in: Rothenburg o. d. Tauber, (West) Germany

Education:

Ph.D. (“Dr. rer. nat.”), University of Erlangen-Nuremberg, Germany, 1979

Diploma in Physics, University of Erlangen-Nuremberg, Germany, 1975

Positions Held:

Professor, Department of Physics, Carnegie Mellon University, 1992 - present

Associate Professor, Department of Physics, Carnegie Mellon University, 1989 - 1992

Assistant Professor, Department of Physics, Carnegie Mellon University, 1983 - 1989

Postdoctoral Research Associate, Max Planck Institute, Munich, Germany, 1980 - 1983

Postdoctoral Research Associate, University of Erlangen-Nuremberg, Germany, 1979 - 1980

Research:

Experimental high-energy physics at particle accelerator laboratories–

CERN, Geneva, Switzerland

Cornell Laboratory for Elementary-Particle Physics (LEPP), Ithaca, NY

Stanford Linear Accelerator Center (SLAC), Stanford, CA

DESY, Hamburg, Germany

Awards and Honors:

Richard Moore Teaching Award, Mellon College of Science, Carnegie Mellon University, 2015

Ryan University Teaching Award, Carnegie Mellon University, 1989

Julius Ashkin Teaching Award, Mellon College of Science, Carnegie Mellon University, 1987

Website:

<http://www.cmu.edu/physics/people/faculty/vogel.html>