

Why Study Abroad?

Academic/Intellectual Goals:

- Develop skills and abilities applicable for use in global contexts
- Enhance second language proficiency
- Expand understanding of global issues
- Grow academically in a new educational system

Identity/Personal Goals:

- Build confidence and improve self-efficacy
- Develop flexibility, independence and creativity
- Develop open-mindedness and respect for differences in a way that inspires reflection and can be applied to one's own life
- Examine and challenge personal values and beliefs

Intercultural Goals:

- Enhance intercultural awareness and competence
- Increase awareness of one's own values (self) and culture and appreciation for cultural differences (others)
- Seek opportunities for authentic interaction and exchange with locals in country or through travel

Professional Goals:

- Build transferable skills for future career
- Gain exposure to the way professionals in one's field may view or approach subjects differently
- Improve problem-solving (through working, studying and living in an unfamiliar context)
- Professionally network and gain a sense of career direction

Types of Programs

University or Departmental Exchange

Carnegie Mellon students participating in these programs continue to pay tuition directly to Carnegie Mellon and receive, in most cases, the same financial aid package. Students are responsible for paying all other fees, such as room and board, directly to the exchange institution.

University Sponsored Programs

Study abroad programs that have been approved as University Sponsored Programs allow students to pay regular Carnegie Mellon tuition, room and board (billed at the junior year rate) while receiving the same financial aid package (minus work study) while abroad.

External Programs

Students participating in External Programs do not pay tuition and fees to Carnegie Mellon for their time abroad. Students cannot use institutional aid from Carnegie Mellon (grants, scholarships, etc. which are administered by Carnegie Mellon) on these programs, but students are eligible for federal and state aid and all loans normally received.

When to Study Abroad

Students who take 88-220, 88-221, and 88-260 as a sophomore will have more options regarding when they are able to study abroad. Students who take the courses listed above as juniors can usually study abroad during one semester of the senior year. Of course, summer is always a great time to study abroad! Please plan to meet with SDS advisor to discuss your specific options.

Important Note

Policy & Management majors have a lot of flexibility in where they study abroad. Please note, however, that all students in SDS are highly encouraged to study abroad and many programs have no foreign language requirements.

Deadlines

Students planning to study abroad for the fall semester or full academic year should complete their applications by mid February. Students planning to study in spring should complete their applications by October 1.

Financial Aid/Funding

Students should review the types of programs listed above to determine the best program option for their unique financial situation. Scholarships are available through the Dietrich Dean's Office for majors in the Dietrich College. Visit <https://www.cmu.edu/studyabroad/getting-started/funding> for more information.